

The American Pediatric Society Howland Visiting Professor Program

Since 1952, the APS has honored more than 65 esteemed pediatric leaders with the APS John Howland Award, the highest award given by the Society. Each recipient has made significant contributions that have advanced child health.

Now the APS extends the reach of this important award through the APS Howland Visiting Professor Program. Part of the Thought Leadership component of the APS 2019 Strategic Plan, the Program supports hosting the APS John Howland Awardee at up to two APS Member's academic institution. Two grants of up to $5,000 are designed to support travel, honoraria, and other expenses incurred by the hosting Member's institution.

Through the APS Howland Visiting Professor Program, APS aims to:

- Advance child health by extending the reach of the wisdom and knowledge of APS Howland awardees beyond the PAS Meeting
- Engage APS Members in active recognition of the Howland Awardee
- Provide value to APS Members and their academic institutions

TIMELINE

A Call for Applications will open May 15 and close July 1. Selections will be made by the APS Howland Visiting Professor Award Committee by August 1 and announced by September 1. Visits should be completed within 12 months following announcement.

ELIGIBILITY & APPLICATION

Any APS Member in good standing and on faculty at a North American academic institution which is willing and able to host a Visiting Professor may apply to host the APS Howland Visiting Professor.

CLICK HERE TO APPLY