

Andrew C. Glatz, MD, MSCE
Professor of Pediatrics and Chief
Division of Cardiology
Washington University School of Medicine.

Andrew C. Glatz, MD, MSCE, is a pediatric interventional cardiologist and clinical researcher, currently a Professor of Pediatrics and Chief of the Division of Pediatric Cardiology at the Washington University School of Medicine and Co-Director of the Heart Center at St. Louis Children's Hospital. Previously, I completed all of my training, including a Master's degree in epidemiology and biostatistics, at the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia and University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. I remained there as a faculty member, where I was the inaugural Director of the Cardiac Center Clinical Research Core before taking my current position.