

Jennifer Mack, MD, MPH

Associate Professor of Pediatrics
Harvard Medical School

Dr. Jenny Mack is a pediatric oncologist at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute and Boston Children's Hospital. She is an Associate Professor of Pediatrics at Harvard Medical School, the Associate Chief of the Division of Population Sciences, Director of the Center for Outcomes and Policy Research, and Faculty Vice President for the Office of Faculty Development at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. Her research focuses on care experiences of children, adolescents, and young adults with cancer, including communication, cancer care delivery, health care quality, and equity. The overarching objective of her work is to build patient-clinician relationships, enhance coping with illness, and improve patient outcomes through effective communication and patient-centered care.