Rachel A. Umoren, MBBCh, MS
Associate Professor of Pediatrics
University of Washington

Dr. Rachel Umoren is a neonatologist at the University of Washington and Seattle Children's Hospital where she is the Associate Division Head for Research and Research Director for the Neonatal Education and Simulation-Based Training Program. Her research focuses on improving neonatal outcomes globally through simulation-based education. She has published and presented internationally on virtual simulations and telesimulation for health professional education.