WHAT APS CAN DO FOR YOU!

APS harnesses expertise across multiple scholarly domains to tackle our greatest challenges. This can be accomplished through PAS Programming, APS Committees, and representation on the Pediatric Policy Council. The APS Issues of the Year focuses this work.

- 2019 The Pediatric Subspecialty Workforce
- 2020 Racism and Social Injustice as Determinants of Child Health
- 2021 Leading with Science and Integrity: the Role of the Pediatrician in Fostering Trust and Combatting Misinformation/Disinformation
- 2022 Enhancing the Academic Pediatric Workforce to Reflect the Children and Communities We Serve
- 2023 Increasing Access to Quality Healthcare for Children Who Are Incarcerated
- 2024 Firearm-Related Injuries and Deaths in Children and Adolescents – A Child Health Epidemic

WHAT APS DOES FOR OTHERS!

To develop a diverse and inclusive population of future academic pediatric leaders and lift up the next generation, APS supports the following programs through membership dues and donations:

- APS Howland Visiting Professor Program
- Pediatric Scientist Development Program (PDSP)
- Research in Academic Pediatrics Initiative on Diversity (RAPID)
- New Century Scholars Resident Mentoring Program (NCS)
- APS SPR Journeys & Frontiers in Pediatric Research
